Kris Trudeau, Halftone Pixel Website Design

Effective design is the marriage of professional, attractive graphics with an engaging and meaningful message. Kris Trudeau, owner of Halftone Pixel Website Design, has built a solid reputation by doing just that on everything from websites to logos to business cards – not just locally, but across Canada.

With 14 years of industry experience, Kris attributes some of her business success to project management experience and customer service.

“I make it easy for my clients to understand the process and their role within it,” she says. “Clients like knowing my quotes are firm with no surprises at the end.”

Kris believes in supporting her community and donates design services and a portion of each sale to local causes. Her professionalism, integrity and community mindedness have earned her a nomination for the
